CAN WARREN HAVE A PUBLIC AUDITORIUM FOR THE PRICE OF 250 SEATS?

TAX INCREASE FINANCES MILLION DOLLAR WARREN SCHOOL BUDGET

A total budget of $1,007,715 was proposed at Monday evening's meeting of the Warren borough school board and will now be presented for adoption at the regular May session. A little more than $45,000 of this figure is restricted in the Beaty fund, leaving a working total of $962,350. The 1955-56 budget was $916,100.

The difference is accounted for by the increase in number of pupils and requires additional teachers, playground supervision, and increases in teachers' salaries.

The property tax rate will be 25 mills, an increase of four, and the per capita and residence tax totaling $10 will remain the same.

It was pointed out that more money was spent in maintenance this past year than is usual. This expense totals approximately $16,000 and includes the re-roofing of South Street school, where a new boiler was also installed, toilet rooms renovated and a stock room arranged. There was also flood damage expense and the cornice around the Lacy building was protected against weathering.

Debt service continues to require about $170,000, as the borough carries the obligation for the 1930 bonds, the Jefferson Authority, and the borough share of the Beaty Authority.

Plans are now being made to provide the necessary money to buy the site for the new high school building.

Among other major items discussed by the board Monday were teacher salaries and teacher vacancies which must be filled for next season. As pointed out earlier, the minimum starting salary in Warren next year will be no less than $3100. There are twelve secondary vacancies to be filled.

Dr. Carl E. Whipple, superintendent of schools, presented two studies he had made for the board's consideration. One dealt with forming a union of the districts in the jointure and the other was on per capita tax collections. Twenty-three schools were contacted in the latter study, and of these there were four with a higher percentage of collections than Warren. The four schools were Butler, Ellwood City, Grove City, and Stroud Union.

Some of the plans in the set-ups mentioned include an additional tax notice, plans for exoneration, and employment of outside agencies to make up the list for the per capita tax. Warren's per cent of collection is 83 with its present set up with the local tax office, which the board considers satisfactory.

The board received a $162,000 general appropriation from the state, leaving a balance due in the amount of $18,000. Receipts for the month amounted to $928, milk program for February, and $97, dental program for January. Also $250 interest on the Beaty Estate trust fund and $3.33 from the justice of the peace.

The financial committee reported that proposals had been received from the two local banks who were asked to consider setting up a trust fund for restricted funds in the district.

Approval was given to pay $1572 for substitutes employed during the month, $119 for special services, $119 for extra duty pay and $96 for overtime. Services costing $1518 were approved along with $3986 for cafeteria bills and $8,031, orders for the month.

The board passed a resolution asking for full reimbursement next year, even though two days of school were missed because of the flood.

The finance committee was authorized to pay bills amounting to $91,871 and $7436 was appropriated for instruction supplies for next year.

Ronald E. Howard, a native of Port Allegany and Lock Haven State Teachers College graduate, was employed as an elementary teacher for the next term, and Mrs. Eileen Johnson was hired as a part time kindergarten instructor.

Notification was received by the board of an increase in gas rates.

The board also approved a date change for the Warren County Institute from October 3 to 12.

INEXPENSIVE AUDITORIUM

Let's put it this way.

If we were to tell you that Warren could have a public auditorium which would seat 1,500 people for the price of 250 seats, would you think it a buy we should not pass up?

If the school committee has decided it will build a 1,000-seat auditorium for 1,500 pupils in our high school for the price of 250!

We can add the other 500 seats

The state pays about half the building costs.

Thus the state will pay for half the additional 500.

Leaving us with 250 to finance.

Certainly far cheaper than a public drive to build an entire public auditorium, such as Warren has wanted for many years.

The price of 250 seats!

And we hesitate?

ONE WAY TRAFFIC still prevailed on the curves atop nearby hills Easter afternoon. The heavy snow had drifted in many places, with no more than a pair of tracks available on several blind curves. The highway department seems to have been a little delinquent, considering the few areas that needed clearing. Fast traffic came up on these drifts unexpectedly and easily could have collided with cars from the other direction.

THE EASTER BUNNY's gift to Faith Ann was a basket of chicks, and that was just what the little miss ordered. She was very pleased, as you can see here. Faith Ann is the two and a half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Harland, Pleasant township.

ROUGH LANDING. This is the bad condition that exists at the westerly end of the Warren airport landing strip. Recent flood waters flowed strongly across the field leaving such results. While there are several other spots torn up on the strip, flying has been resumed.

Manager Einer Johnson has cleared the runways, but the big task of removing debris from the field itself still remains.

OFF-STREET PARKING may be available on the YMCA tennis court if negotiations between the Warren Parking Authority and the YMCA board of directors work out satisfactorily. As we indicated before, this move has been in the air for some time and it now looks like reality. The court would be available for parking about eight months out of the year. Removable parking meters could be used. However, this has not been officially announced.

TO MY FRIENDS AND CUSTOMERS

This is indeed a bitter pill for me to swallow. But weather curtailed Easter volume, over-buying and difficulty in cancellations left me with no other way out. Space and cash are the needs of the hour. Hence I have called on National Sales System to liquidate at least one-half of my stock of crisp new apparel and jewelry in as few days as possible.

I'm disregarding profits and overlooking losses on my entire stock. All merchandise is new and savings to you are up to one-third and even more.

Don't take my word for it. Come in and see for yourself. Original and Sale Tags are on every item.

NEW SEATING to accommodate 3000 extra patrons and track reconstruction are on the agenda this year at Skyline Speedway. The Sugar Grove oval is scheduled to open on May 6 for new model cars, 54's, 55's and 56's, with a guaranteed purse of $2500.

Drivers who have already sent in their entry in the new car classification are Don Bailey of Brockway, 1956 Ford; Joe Saunders of Jamestown, N. Y., 1956 Ford; Ken Johnson of Jamestown, N. Y., 1956 Ford; "Squirt" Johns of Brockway, 1956 Chevrolet; Emory Mahan of Warren, 1955 Chevrolet. Johns was the '55 champion in the modified group.

SHEFFIELD ELIMINATED

Playing under the name of White Lunch, the champions of Sheffield high were eliminated in the first round of play in the Jamestown Boys' Club Sure-Shot tourney for seniors last week. The county lads took it on the chin, 64-54, from the Carnahan-Shearer aggregation. Top man for the ex-Wolverines was Don Labesky, who dumped 21 points through the hoop.

Sheffield was highly favored in the pre-tournament predictions.

HOMAN IS MENTIONED

Warren high cage ace, Jeff Homan, was one of three Section Two, District 10 players to receive honorable mention in the AP all-state basketball listings. Meadville's Wilbur Jenkins made the second team, which was the highest honor given any District 10 floorman.

Others from the area to make honorable mention were Barber, Bradford; Hartz, Oil City; Smith and Thompson, Kane; and Voisin, Titusville.

This year's first place team consisted of Horace Walker, Chester; Walter Mangham, New Castle; Ray Scott, West Philadelphia; Pete Hall, from the championship Farrell five; Bob Hefner, Allentown; and Bob Mikvy, Palmerton.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE MEETING

Initial plans for this year's Industrial softball league will be considered at a meeting of interested persons at 8 o'clock this evening at the YMCA.

HOT STOVE MEETING

Hot Stove league team handlers and ward chairmen are urged to be present for the regular meeting scheduled for 7:30 Wednesday evening, April 11, at the YMCA. At this time registration material will be handed out. The official registration dates for youngsters to sign up are April 16 and 17.

TRACK PRACTICE DELAYED

"If we were a swimming team, we would be in good shape", said Loyal Briggs, Warren high track and field coach Wednesday. The Dragon thinclads have limited severely in their workouts as they prepare for the opener against Youngsville here on Friday, April 13.

To date the field men have not had a single opportunity to practice on Beaty field. All workouts have been limited to running, and some of that has been in the snow.

On Wednesday water on Beaty field forced the trackmen to use the former horse track near the gas company building on Conewango ave.

MASTERS TELEVISED

We don't see it on our schedules, but the Masters golf tournament is being televised nationally Friday, from 5 to 5:30, and Saturday and Sunday, from 5 to 6.

RADIO TIME DEBATE

Daytime radios, such as Warren's WNAE, are pressuring congress to do something about their problem of varying sign-off times, which are supposed to follow the sunset. Whether they are right or wrong in their contentions is not clarified by the fact that the Federal Communications Commission, which cracks the whip over the radio operators, has been thinking about this for eleven years and has not announced its decision.

The FCC may be made to direct its attention in this direction by a committee appointed to study the problem. Named by Senator John Sparkman, who is chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, it consists of Senators John Kennedy, Wayne Morse, and Andrew F. Schoeppel, a group we would like to have on our side if we wanted to see something done.

The full-time stations are very apt to oppose the move because of the interference which results after sundown. AM reception has become very much a clutter of mingled noises, except where a few area stations do a booming job during the day.

The additional hours during the winter would make available more air time for sale by the local operators, and consistent scheduling throughout the year would be possible.

The FCC is very apt to suggest that FM is the answer. FM does not bother the full-time stations in the evening hours, and assures good reception locally. We never have been able to figure why it hasn't been pushed harder and shown more respect by some who have it available.

OLYMPIC PRICE

TV news services including the major networks, Canada, and Great Britain are opposing the price which the Australian Olympic committee wants for a minimum amount, of film covering that event. The price is $168,000, and the tv interests are arguing that it should have the same free access as any news medium.

RADIO AUTOMATION

Machines are in the making which will make it possible for small radio stations to operate throughout the day by doing no more than turn a switch. Machines playing one hundred records, or long-play discs, or series of the same, would keep the station on the air all day. Interruptions might be limited to special hours for timely news coverage.

As tv grows and reaches further into the hinterland with a greater variety of program choices, radio may move into the canned entertainment field for economic reasons. Wherever you go will be radio, playing, playing on jukeboxes.

WHICH DO YOU WANT?

Because the many community tv lines in the area constantly are changing their stations, it is difficult to learn which program schedules are the most in demand. The majority of lines have at least one or two, and many times all, of the following: Buffalo WGR, WBEN, and Johnstown, Sheffield and Tidoute viewers seem divided between Altoona and Pittsburgh. Neither is received very well in Warren.

We hope to serve all five of them on many weeks, but in crowded issues we may have to drop one. Which will it be? This week we have scheduled KDKA for a tv page. Altoona will appear elsewhere, if at all. Why not call us and let us know which you prefer?

WE BELIEVE

That is the name of a program which will start on WBEN, Sunday morning, to tell what Catholics believe. It will be produced by the National Council of Catholic Men, with the Rev. James J. McQuade, of John Carroll university, explaining what Catholics believe about God, man, Christ, moral life, divine worship, sanctifying grace, actual grace, sacraments, religious life, church and state, and the Bible. The time will be 11 o'clock in the morning.

ROBERT ST. JOHN

Author of several books, foreign correspondent for Associated Press during the war, and radio commentator; these are a few of the descriptions publicity men use when discussing Robert St. John. He will be heard on the Helen Neville Show, from 2 to 2:30, Tuesday afternoon, over WGR.

THOSE WHO WATCHED the big top perform on tv Tuesday may have been seeing a preview of things to come in Warren this year. The big show is willing to include Warren on its itinerary if a place can be found to put it.

BASEBALL COMES to tv by way of Buffalo WBEN and Altoona, starting Saturday, when Cleveland will play the Giants at 2:15. This is the inaugural of the tv game of the week, which will be a regular on these stations, and will include twenty-four official major league games, plus two training contests.

Stand-by games will be ready for telecasting if the scheduled event is rained out. Dizzy Dean and Buddy

TOO MUCH MONEY has been asked by Emmy winner Nanette Fabray for her part on Caesar's Hour and she probably will be replaced by Shirley Conway or Pat Carroll. Nanette wanted the salary increased from $3,750 to $7,500. Sid apparently thought it too much, and so they split. Build 'em and lose 'em.

DEAD SEA SCROLLS

The discovery of scrolls which are believed to have been hidden in caves near the Dead Sea in years just a few B. C., have been the subject of many articles and books. There are some who believe these scrolls will reveal information that may shake the foundations of the Christian religion. Most authorities apparently are aware of their importance but doubt if they will cause great fundamental changes. Some are inclined to believe they will even strengthen the Christian faith. And there are the open skeptics.

The obvious importance of these documents makes any new revelation of prime interest to all of us. For that reason you might like to read this week's edition of the New Republic, April 9, which will have an article by Prof. Miller Burrows and nine foremost scholars, including Protestants, Catholics, and Jews. Title of the article is The Meaning of the Dead Sea Scrolls.

ART EXHIBIT

Twenty-five works of sixteen professional artists will be shown in the Warren Public Library gallery, April 16 through April 28, with hours from 3 to 5 p. m., and 7 to 9 p. m.

Money to make this show possible has been raised through the combined efforts of the School Art Sponsors fund-raising activities, the portrait project and the sale of twelve baskets which were painted and decorated by the Warren Art Club members, organizers of the show. Additional funds came from the Warren high school art department which contributed the proceeds from its play, Peter Pan.

From the paintings shown, two will be purchased to start the Warren high school collection of contemporary art. One will be an oil painting and the other a water color.

TOP VIOLINIST COMING

Jeanne Mitchell, one of the few artists to be a guest soloist of the New York Philharmonic Symphony for the last five seasons, will be home from a European tour in time to play her violin for Chautauqua audiences July 31, August 3, and August 5. The August 2 date will be a recital. She will appear with the Chautauqua Symphony orchestra in her other appearances.

COLUMBUS DAM DELAYED

The hopes held that the Columbus dam might be improved by the state were not encouraged by the action of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission at its recent meeting. It approved the acquisition of eight new sites, but held over to the May meeting four others that were on the agenda. Those held over included the Columbus project.

Meanwhile, it adopted numerous standards for the construction of lakes by the Commission. These include the requirement of a minimum fifty surface acres, a maximum depth of thirty feet, and complete ownership of a land strip no less than 200 feet above flood level entirely surrounding the impoundment. (An exception would be the presence of railway or highway right-of-ways within the 200 feet.) A ceiling of $250,000 was placed on lake construction.

The reasons for such standards are obvious. It costs as much to build a lake less than fifty acres as it does to construct the bigger lake. Control of the shoreline assures the public full use of the lake, and reduces flood damage.

To these requirements you also can add the need for a clean water supply, free of pollution, and preferably where good watershed management is practiced or where it is protected by zoning regulations. Such a lake would be an additional recreation asset for the area. We wonder, however, if a couple other comments by the Commission might suggest rough going for the project. It was decided to adopt a policy that would give preference to economically depressed areas, and to localities now offering the least public fishing opportunities. This area would not come under other either heading.

Gavin Switches To Kinzua Dam

Congressman Gavin before a packed court house, last night, admitted he had been wrong all those years he fought for river navigation and asserted that he now was working for the Kinzua dam. In a lengthy review of his past errors, he one by one knocked down the arguments often used against the dam and revealed it was much better than dikes and smaller dams.

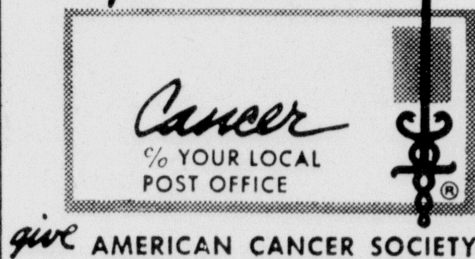

He invited letters from individuals, petitions from groups, and resolutions from organizations to support his appeals for funds and to convince him of the public desire for such a dam. He estimated he might get planning funds amounting to $549,000 by 1957 and the dam might be done in ten years.

Colonel Sprague, of the Pittsburgh Army Engineer corps, said he believed it might be done in five years.

Harold Putnam raised his voice against the dam, and said there were many who were against it for other reasons than their preference for navigation. However, despite an open invitation, no one gave other reasons.

Though there was little revealed that would be new to the readers of these pages, it was good to hear the subject aired over the air and in public meeting. We will discuss it more thoroughly in a later issue, and we have a very enlightening article planned that may offer all residents of Warren the many answers which they seek.

Hospital Announces New Credit Policy

Credit policies recently adopted by the Warren General Hospital Board of Directors were announced today by Hospital Administrator, Joseph A. Williamson. These policies were adopted after a study by the management consultant firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget in cooperation with the Hospital's Special Committee on Credit and Collections.

The study revealed that hospital bills owed by patients amounted to more than $100,000 and was increasing. The new regulations are designed to reduce the amount owed the hospital by patients and will pertain to both outpatients and those admitted to the hospital.

Effective Monday, April 9, outpatients served by the laboratory, X-Ray, Physiotherapy, or emergency room shall be required to pay cash if the cost of the single visit does not exceed $10.00. Outpatients who desire to be billed for services which cost over $10.00 shall be required to complete a credit application.

Outpatients who can show proof of insurance of a type which covers the service being rendered or whose injury appears to be covered by workmen's compensation insurance shall be exempted from the above policies.

Patients who are not covered by hospitalization insurance shall be required to pay $50.00 on admission. Mr. Williamson explained that this policy will apply only to about 20 per cent of those admitted because approximately 80 per cent do carry some form of hospital insurance.

Detailed statement of charges shall be rendered weekly to the responsible party for each patient in the hospital. If the patient has Blue Cross or other hospitalization insurance, the statement will be so marked.

Mr. Williamson, in revealing the new credit policies, said that financial support of Warren General Hospital comes largely from charges made to patients for room, board, nursing care and the use of diagnostic and treatment facilities. Some additional operating funds are also derived from appropriations from Warren County and the State of Pennsylvania but are used to help defray the cost of caring for charity patients.

Because approximately 95 per cent of the hospital's total operating funds is derived from charges to patients, the hospital must maintain close control over extension of credit and collection of bills.

QUIET EASTER

Repeated outraged criticism fortunately has scared the networks away from telecasting New York's Easter parade, so that this year's Easter was celebrated in comparative quiet. There was, it's true, a local telecast composed largely of people waving at the camera, in case that sort of thing entrances you, but in general, Easter was celebrated on the networks as a religious observance which, of course, is what it is. The networks deserve a pat on the back for that.

As a matter of fact, Easter almost slipped by unnoticed on television. You could look at a lot of television on Sunday without hearing a mention of Easter and this was a blessed relief. The pounding some of our holidays have taken on television in recent years has almost taken all the fun out of them. "Omnibus", for example, turned its almost exclusive attention to airplanes, first with an absorbing group of films of the testing of a jet airplane, then with an account of the court martial of Billy Mitchell.

The Billy Mitchell case was especially interesting because it was taken directly from the trial testimony and, according to Alistair Cooke, this was the first time anyone has been allowed access to it. Of course, the stupidity and blindness of the sea admirals and land generals to this new menace, the airplane, has long been well known, but what is not so well known -- at least to me -- is the way this court martial was conducted.

I sat on a good many court martial boards myself and I can't remember any court martial conducted with the asperity and wisecracks and flagrant deviations from the issues as this one. Especially in a court martial of this importance, it was an eye-opener. Still, cutting months of testimony down to less than an hour of television could be very misleading, indeed. Sometimes this kind of television journalism, where they try to stick scrupulously to the facts, is less revealing than a solid rewrite.

Still, it was an unusual and consistently interesting bit of television. All the other records have been pillaged -- the F.B.I., the Treasury Department, all the police departments. It's just possible they'll start pillaging the testimony from all the trials -- Lizzie Borden, Harry K. Thaw, and the rest of them.

NBC's Comedy Hour on Sunday remains a large, painful problem. It now has Gail Storm, the pretty refugee from "My Little Margie", as its mistress of ceremonies. She is asked to sing and to dance a step or two and to wear the most preposterous collection of clothes in addition to pointing at the other entertainers. She does all this passably well, but I don't know that it is enough to haul down Ed Sullivan.

The quality of the entertainment ranges from pretty good to pretty horrible, and I don't see any reason why the range shouldn't be easily narrowed. There was a comedian named Georgie Kaye who was pulling some jokes that I thought had perished with "College Humor". (Girl: I went to pieces. Boy: Whoever put you together again did a good job.) Another comedian Jonathan Winters, did a very good job, indeed, in a sketch about an organ grinder who is secretly a bookie. This one closed with a bit of pathos, a commodity the comedians seem to be rediscovering.

A couple of other sketches with Caesar Romero -- one in a supermarket which stocks everything but bread, another with Burt Wheeler and a pie -- seemed to labor awfully hard to get off the ground and to take a terribly long time to pass a given point.

THE TROUBLE WITH ESTES is that the people like him. And the people don't count. His primary victories will be used only to discount current opponents and to support the need for better ones. Harry and Averell sit back and watch quietly and surely.

current Washington effort they may find a new election law on the books which will offer no improvement over the present one. Under the current set-up it would favor the Republicans, but it could swing the other way at some future time.

The proposal is disguised as an effort to give the people a greater voice in the presidential election by dividing the electoral votes in each state according to the proportion cast for each candidate. But it won't do that.

If this amendment goes through the votes will be divided according to congressional districts, not according to the proportion of the total state vote. There is a great difference.

The gerrymandering done in most states has divided districts to favor parties in control at the time the districts were established. As the result, in the last election, Republicans received less than half the vote in New York, California, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Michigan, and New Jersey, but they won sixty per cent of the Washington seats.

In 1954 the Democrats received 51.2 per cent of the votes but seated only 48.6 per cent. In one election, the Republicans outside of the South got 51 per cent of the total, but elected 64.8 per cent of the congressmen.

This is not the kind of change the people have demanded. They want a true picture of the vote represented on a national scale. It can be very easily done by dividing the total electoral vote in each state on the same basis as the total actual vote.

The law now is in committee and probably will not get out again this year. We waited until election year to even talk about one. Then it was so unfair that it didn't have a chance. We now will wait four more years. Meanwhile, let's watch out for the sneaker.

IF YOU HAVE DONATED to Goodwill Industries, you probably would be interested in seeing what they are doing. A guided tour to inspect the new building in Buffalo is planned for Warren residents on April 26. It is part of a week of such tours.

The Warren group will board a bus at 9 a. m., and return at 7 p. m. They will have luncheon in the new cafeteria, hear a talk by a Goodwill official, tour the block-long building which includes a workshop, store, meditation room, occupational therapy department, exhibit room, and workers' lounge. They also will be served tea.

Reservations can be made by calling Warren 3021. The cost, $3.85, including bus fare and luncheon. Marilou Anderegg, of Warren, who has sparked the work in Warren, hopes all her 700 friends will decide to go.

HIGHER GAS RATES for customers of the Pennsylvania Gas Company will go into effect June 2, 1956, if the Pennsylvania Public Utility commission approves a current petition for increases. The average increase, according to company officials, will be about fourteen per cent.

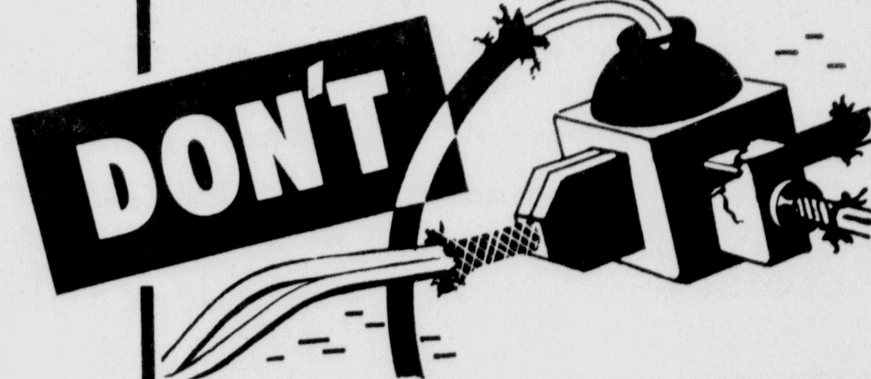

However, for the small consumer it will be a bit higher. The present minimum and first thousand rate is one dollar for those who do not use gas as the principal fuel for heating. It will increase to $2. For those who use gas as their principal fuel the first thousand and the minimum will increase from $1.75 to $3.35, or $3.25 net.

The company announces that the new rate schedules are on file in its offices for your inspection.

A FLOOD THREATENS this area if we should have heavy rain in the next few days. The heavy snow has been feeding the many streams so well that the river jumped from 8.6 to 11.6 in less than twenty-four hours. By this morning we imagine it may be nudging the 14 foot mark, and that is flood stage. However, this is written Wednesday afternoon and the rise of course is determined by the temperature and the amount of precipitation. One protection that has been there to save us on many occasion during the past few winters now is gone. It is doubtful if sufficient cold will develop at this time of year to check a flood. Once it starts, we're off for the rapids.

THIRTY-FIVE THOUSAND dollars used for the purchase and re-decorating of the court house annex could have been used for remodeling such rooms as this one that is now collecting dust in the main building.

DID YOU KNOW the Warren County Court House has space available for the installation of approximately 25 new offices? Well it does, as we found out this week by making a tour of the building. Here you see a portion of the unused space at the front end of the structure's basement. A second office is on this end also.

COMMISSIONERS L. L. Johnson, Lewis Crippen and Blain Mead discuss the possibility of converting the court house basement into offices that could be occupied by those now situated in the annex building. The doorways on both sides all enter into spacious rooms. Some are used for storage spaces. The commissioners believe an architect could decorate the basement into 17 offices, and there is more room available on the third floor. This passageway has already been repainted.

BOWLING

DOUBLES MOVE

The doubles and singles of the Warren Bowling association annual tournament moves to the Penn Bowling Center to complete the schedule. It will be completed in two shifts, scheduled for April 15 and 22. The team event will finish this week end on the Youngsville lanes.

LADIES TOURNAMENT

The reason the men's tournament cannot be rolled this week end is that the Penn alleys already were scheduled by the women's 200 Club. It will have its annual event Sunday, with shifts at 4:30, 7, and 8. Over thirty will be entered.

AKRON MOVES IN

Joe Melesky, of Akron, took over the Ten Pin sweeps lead with 1258 last week end. Eddie Nugent of Warren now is tenth with his 1179. In the big sweeps, George Young of Detroit still leads with 1293. The Pabst Blue Ribbon team (Kristoff's boys) will be in Friday evening at 10:30 to shoot at the big money, and Joe Fazio also will be there that evening.

OFF TO ROCHESTER

Four Warren teams will be rolling in the ABC tournament in Rochester this week. The teams and their line-ups are:

Fernow-Chevrolet, Fred Baldensperger, Nummy Wooster, Bob Check, Jim Thomas, and Mark Gelotte.

Culligans, George Senger, Dr. Yerg, Pete Nichols, Everett Hoagvall, and Slug Sterling.

Nick's Restaurant, Dave Fink, Chuck Stephens, John Clark, Frank Willard, and Allan Johnson.

Paulmar's Restaurant, Pete Juliano, Dr. Giunta, Meyer Pappalardo, Paul Coppola, and Frank Gerardi.

All of them will have completed their three events by Friday. On April 16 and 17, the Abplanalp team will make the trip, with veteran Al Munson, 79, on the roster. The others are Deac Lay, Bill Lohnes, Ken Vanderwart, and Don Mills.

LOCAL LEADERS

Pete Juliano led the local scoring with 233, 256 and 675 for a new season's high in the City league. He also sparked the New York Restaurant team with 623 to a league championship in a match with Check Brothers, which they won, 2795 to 2569. Jim Thomas led Checks with 577.

The league also had a tournament which was won by Dr. Jim Giunta with 618 plus a handicap of 54 for 672. Other winners were Andy Randinelli, 658, Ralph McCloskey and Paul Coppola, 652, and Dave Fink, 649.

Lou Vescio led the Commercial with 616, and Jack Kifer hit 601. John Carbon led the Merchants with 590 to help the Observer hit 969 and 2716 for new league records.

Dave Fink led the Junior Industrial with 575, Tony Molinaro the Shop with 539, Ned Spangler the Sylvania with 534, Jim Henry the Junior AJBC with 479, and Jim English the Arcade Junior with 474. The Penn Restaurant won the AJBC title.

THE LADIES

Bert's won the Major league title as the season ended, with the scoring led by Vi Sterling with 538, Rose Juliano with 524, and Joan Shetty with 507.

Valone Shoes won the second half of the City league and will meet Virg-Ann Monday in the roll-off. Jaye Pappalardo and Rose Leuthold led with 495.

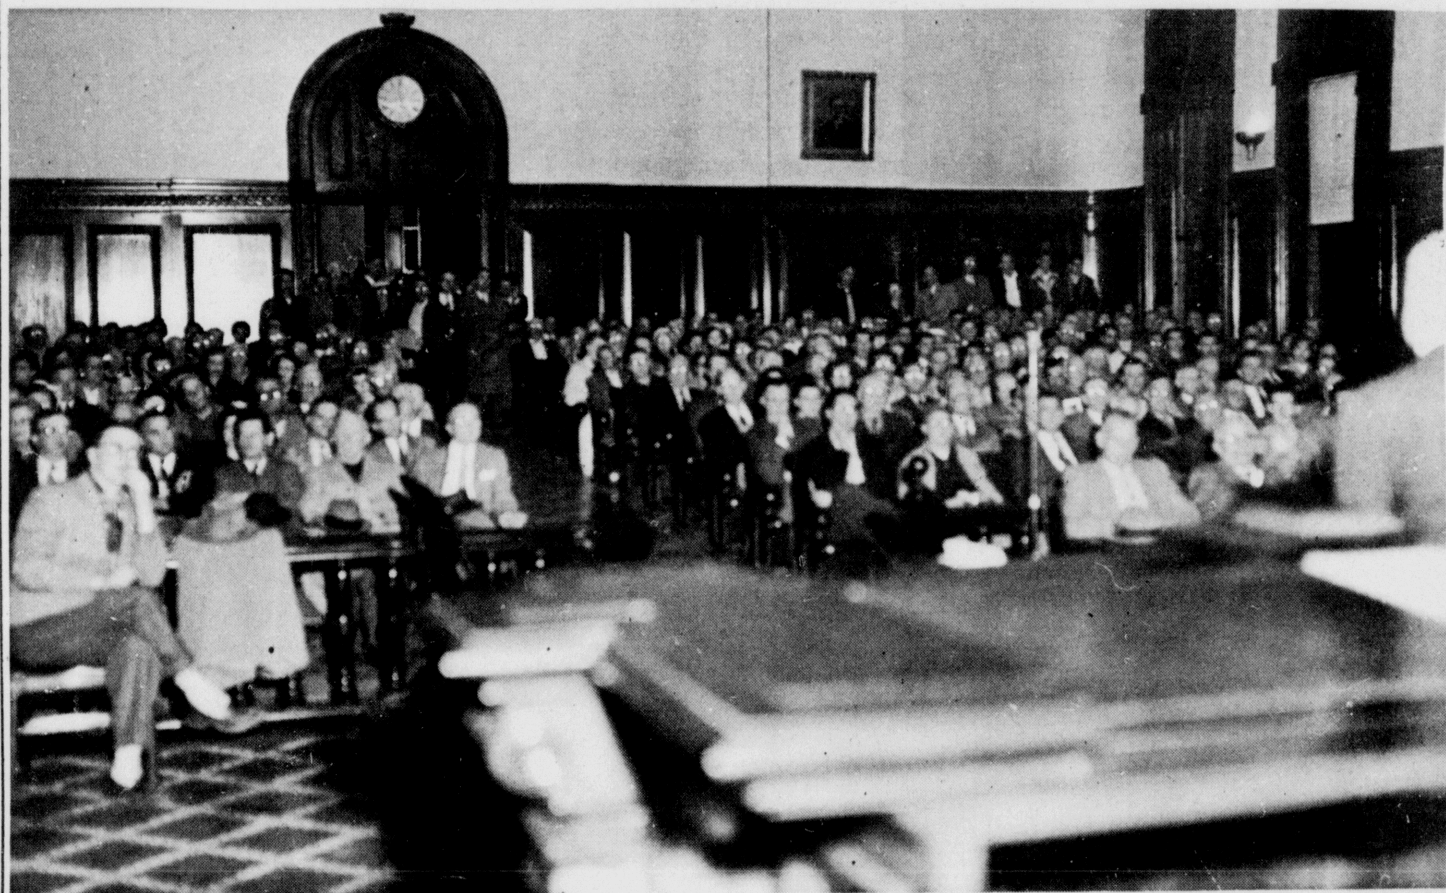

Other leaders: Helen Pusateri with 486 in the Class C, Cynthia VerMilyea with 456 in Peg's, Marg Ristau with 429 in the Automotive.

The Tuesday mixed league ended with Carbons on top. Busty Pintagro with 539 and Jean Pintagro with 405 led the scoring. Joe Bruto had a 163 triple. Bill Lucia topped the Metzger-Wright circuit with 458.

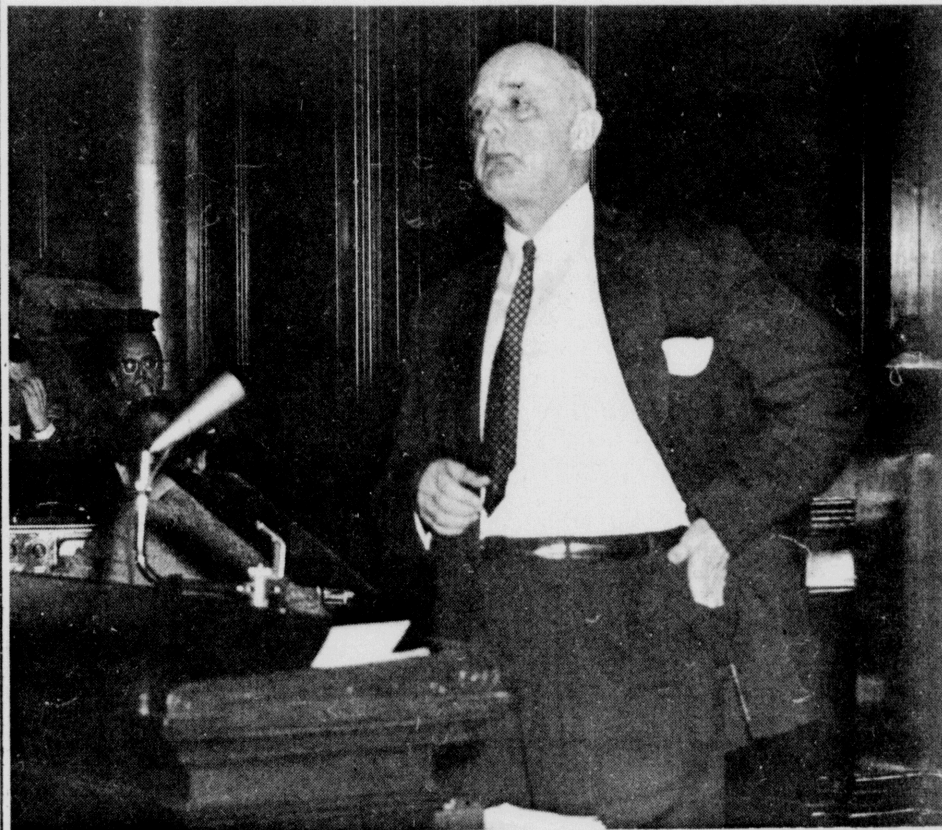

The Warren Observer took both halves of the Minor league, and now will banquet next Wednesday at the Carver Hotel. Patsy Hoffman led them with 472.

A GOOD DEED at Easter time was done by these ninth grade Y-Teens who spent Friday morning making corsages for the ladies at Watson home. They are (l. to r.) Lanman, Ann Fuellhart, Ardith Outrid, Linda Whitehill, Barbara Johnson and Sue Barone.

PACKED. The Warren county court house was packed last night when about 400 people attended a flood control meeting to hear officials talk about the Kinzua dam and other methods of controlling the waters. They learned the dam has been authorized and that Congressman Gavin hopes to obtain the funds for its completion within ten years.

CHANGED HIS MIND. Congressman Gavin told those attending a flood control meeting in the Warren county court house last night that he had changed his mind. For many years an advocate of navigation, he now realizes it is not practical and is working for the construction of the Kinzua dam.

STALK A CROW

We would rather bring home one crow we had stalked than to haul home a trunkload of black birds we had shot after calling them to a blind. It might not be as helpful to the farmer, but the satisfaction of a good hunting job is represented in that single bird.

This, we know, contradicts the Game Commission item which appeared here last week, but we always were somewhat of a lone wolf when it came to gunning for game. We were brought up with a single-shot gun, a minimum of equipment, and instilled with the knowledge of how to survive with a twist of twine, a box of matches, a jackknife, and a respect for the weapon in our hands.

We disagree that once an old crow has spotted human beings in the area, and has given its warning, the sport is over for the day. If you have a strong pair of legs, good eyes, and a knowledge of wild things, a flushed animal is not a loss. The fun has just started. Now you really must out-think him, and what you do next depends on the nature of the quarry and what you think he will do.

Hawks and owls can be very successfully stalked in the day time, if you know them very well, if your feet are quiet, and if you have a shotgun that will do a good job at a fairly long range. But you don't obtain that knowledge or gain those quiet feet by sitting in a blind or by reading books. You gain a little more of the skill each time the bird is flown and another chance is gone.

The same goes for the black ones. They can be stalked, even as wild geese and turkeys. But it takes some doing. And it is this doing that makes it the real sport. If they were dumb and easily knocked over the fun would be lacking and the pleasure would have to be gained through blood-letting.

If you enjoy killing, sit in a blind and toot your call. But if you like to hunt, learn to stalk and not to miss with the only shot you probably will get.

And remember, you don't learn to shoot by spraying the ozone with buckshot. Leave the pump at home. Load a single shot in a good gun and learn what it means when you can't afford to miss. You soon will be making them count, and your shooting will greatly improve.

69,000 TROUT

Legal sized brooks, browns, and rainbows are being placed in many of the streams which run through the Allegheny National Forest area, with members of area fish and game clubs helping the foresters with the big job. About 69,000 such fish are being distributed from the Allegheny National Forest fish hatchery at Farnsworth.

Forest Supervisor E. M. Bacon has announced the following streams as recipients of the fish:

Bear Creek, Little Hickory, Ross Run, Blue Jay, Queen, Prather, Sugar Run, Meade Run, Willow Run, Four Mile, Hedgehog;

Big Mill Creek, East Hickory Cr., Salmon Creek, Wolf Run, The Branch, Otter, Chappel Fork, Brown Run, Farnsworth, Minister, Clark;

E. Branch Millstone Creek, W. Branch Millstone Creek, E. Branch Spring Creek, Beaver Cr. of Hickory, Coon Creek of Tionesta, Little Coon of Tionesta;

West Branch Tionesta, South Branch Tionesta, East Branch Tionesta, South Branch Kinzua, North Branch Sugar Run;

Spring Creek, Wilson Run, Fork Run, Hoffman Run, Bobbs Creek, Tionesta, Kinzua, Six Mile, Two Mile, Slater Run, Lewis Run.

Additional information concerning stream locations, public camping areas and other recreation facilities is available from the Allegheny National Forest headquarters at Warren, Penna., or from local Chambers of Commerce, Auto Clubs, etc. in the area.

Late last winter, nutria belonging to a man in Mercer County escaped from their enclosures, says Game Protector Arthur Biondi. He reports: "These beaver-like animals scattered all over the Shenango Valley. Uninformed persons who saw these animals, or caught them in their traps, called my headquarters asking what they were. These people knew nothing of the animal. Some wondered whether an unknown creature was invading Pennsylvania.

Though Biondi's statement may not be prophetic, a recent report from Texas tells that the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission cautioned persons propagating nutria as a means of controlling aquatic vegetation.

He said the rat-like animals helped in some instances but proved a nuisance in others. Residents of one Texas locality were on the warpath against nutria, the officials said, because the fur animals raided farm fields. Three females and two male nutria were released in the area six years ago. Now, more than 2000 of the aquatic rodents have been killed in a move to control them. Some of the nutria have been seen as far away as twenty miles from the release point, the report said.

STALK A CROW

We would rather bring home one crow we had stalked than to haul home a trunkload of black birds we had shot after calling them to a blind. It might not be as helpful to the farmer, but the satisfaction of a good hunting job is represented in that single bird.

This, we know, contradicts the Game Commission item which appeared here last week, but we always were somewhat of a lone wolf when it came to gunning for game. We were brought up with a single-shot gun, a minimum of equipment, and instilled with the knowledge of how to survive with a twist of twine, a box of matches, a jackknife, and a respect for the weapon in our hands.

We disagree that once an old crow has spotted human beings in the area, and has given its warning, the sport is over for the day. If you have a strong pair of legs, good eyes, and a knowledge of wild things, a flushed animal is not a loss. The fun has just started. Now you really must out-think him, and what you do next depends on the nature of the quarry and what you think he will do.

Hawks and owls can be very successfully stalked in the day time, if you know them very well, if your feet are quiet, and if you have a shotgun that will do a good job at a fairly long range. But you don't obtain that knowledge or gain those quiet feet by sitting in a blind or by reading books. You gain a little more of the skill each time the bird is flown and another chance is gone.

The same goes for the black ones. They can be stalked, even as wild geese and turkeys. But it takes some doing. And it is this doing that makes it the real sport. If they were dumb and easily knocked over the fun would be lacking and the pleasure would have to be gained through blood-letting.

If you enjoy killing, sit in a blind and toot your call. But if you like to hunt, learn to stalk and not to miss with the only shot you probably will get.

And remember, you don't learn to shoot by spraying the ozone with buckshot. Leave the pump at home. Load a single shot in a good gun and learn what it means when you can't afford to miss. You soon will be making them count, and your shooting will greatly improve.

69,000 TROUT

Legal sized brooks, browns, and rainbows are being placed in many of the streams which run through the Allegheny National Forest area, with members of area fish and game clubs helping the foresters with the big job. About 69,000 such fish are being distributed from the Allegheny National Forest fish hatchery at Farnsworth.

Forest Supervisor E. M. Bacon has announced the following streams as recipients of the fish:

Bear Creek, Little Hickory, Ross Run, Blue Jay, Queen, Prather, Sugar Run, Meade Run, Willow Run, Four Mile, Hedgehog;

Big Mill Creek, East Hickory Cr., Salmon Creek, Wolf Run, The Branch, Otter, Chappel Fork, Brown Run, Farnsworth, Minister, Clark;

E. Branch Millstone Creek, W. Branch Millstone Creek, E. Branch Spring Creek, Beaver Cr. of Hickory, Coon Creek of Tionesta, Little Coon of Tionesta;

West Branch Tionesta, South Branch Tionesta, East Branch Tionesta, South Branch Kinzua, North Branch Sugar Run;

Spring Creek, Wilson Run, Fork Run, Hoffman Run, Bobbs Creek, Tionesta, Kinzua, Six Mile, Two Mile, Slater Run, Lewis Run.

Additional information concerning stream locations, public camping areas and other recreation facilities is available from the Allegheny National Forest headquarters at Warren, Penna., or from local Chambers of Commerce, Auto Clubs, etc. in the area.

IMPORTED FURBEARER ON LOOSE

Late last winter, nutria belonging to a man in Mercer County escaped from their enclosures, says Game Protector Arthur Biondi. He reports: "These beaver-like animals scattered all over the Shenango Valley. Uninformed persons who saw these animals, or caught them in their traps, called my headquarters asking what they were. These people knew nothing of the animal. Some wondered whether an unknown creature was invading Pennsylvania.

Though Biondi's statement may not be prophetic, a recent report from Texas tells that the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission cautioned persons propagating nutria as a means of controlling aquatic vegetation.

He said the rat-like animals helped in some instances but proved a nuisance in others. Residents of one Texas locality were on the warpath against nutria, the officials said, because the fur animals raided farm fields. Three females and two male nutria were released in the area six years ago. Now, more than 2000 of the aquatic rodents have been killed in a move to control them. Some of the nutria have been seen as far away as twenty miles from the release point, the report said.

(Ed. Note. -- The nutria is a coypu, a South American rodent with webbed back feet.)

COLGATE NEXT

The next company to bring out a toothpaste with fluoride will be Colgate-Palmolive. It will be called Brisk to compete with Procter and Gamble's Crest, which, incidentally, has been selling quite well. Well enough to bring Colgate into the market.

Say the dentists, "Fluoride toothpastes are being marketed prematurely." The meaning of such a statement is too vague for us. Either there are possibilities not yet fully developed, or this is just a way of saying they don't know.

Two interesting aspects: Where do those with medical knowledge who advocated using this chemical in water systems stand on the toothpaste? And where do those who fought fluoridation stand? If they thought a tiny amount of fluorine in the water system was poison, what do they think about its use in toothpastes?

There is a difference? Drinking water took it into your system and did more than apply it externally.

Our guess. Fluoride toothpaste will go the way of all previous pastes which were supposed to prevent decay. The dentists still are in business, and are buying fancier drills with which to do it.

FILE IT?

You are about to buy yourself a year of national government. April 15 is the income tax deadline this year, and the Pittsburgh office says that almost half the due returns have not been filed. It expects to handle 1,450,000. Up to late last week there still were 600,000 who hadn't got around to it.

If you need help with your form, call the Internal Revenue Service office. They won't fill it out for you, but they will clarify the puzzling portions of the form. There are some changes this year, as usual. About the time we get so we know our way around one of these things, they put in a new curve.

But it is a comfortable feeling about this time of year to make out a form and get it into the mail. The bill already has been paid, and some of us even may get a little back.

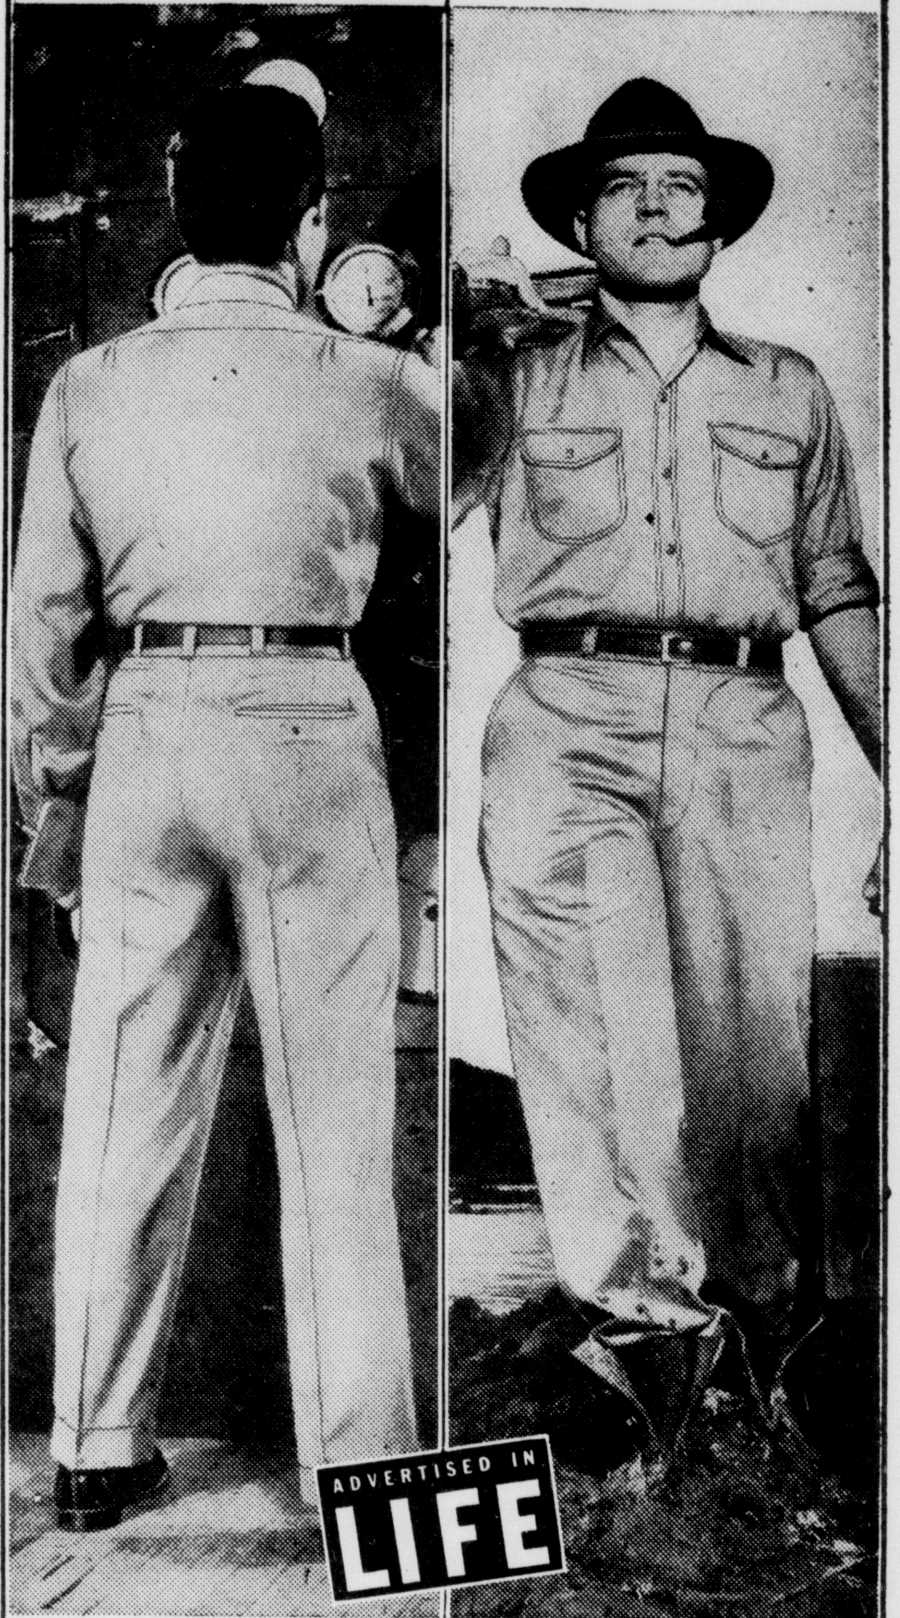

Like all Americans we always develop a slow burn as we wend our way through the complicated series of additions, subtractions, and searches for line "this" to team up with line "that". We object even to a suggestion of regimentation or control.

Yet, it is this form that makes our nation possible, assures us the freedoms of which we are so defensive, and the extension of which we fight for at the drop of an adverb. We are buying service, defense, security, democracy, justice, and all the freedoms.

Too big a chunk of this is going for war, either in the form of constant defense, or to pay for the past ones. Without war obligations, this form would be a simple affair. Your tax would go down to perhaps a fifth of what it now is.

But that won't happen right away, even if a means is found to assure peace. We still must pay off the old debts, including war debts, veteran care, and other aftermaths.

For the moment we have much to do. We must keep alert to the current problems and vote intelligently. We should make sure our elected officials realize we are alert and let them know what we want. We are paying a big price and we cannot be sure of our full value unless we keep our minds on the business, a very big business costing us many billions.

So lend that form you are mailing a big share of respect. Make sure it is right, double check all the figures, names, and other data required before you mail it. Above all, make sure it can be read.

Because after all the other bills are paid, you still are helping to finance the men and women who handle and process these forms. Everyone that gives them trouble costs you more money. Their efficiency depends much on your own accuracy and promptness.

And after all this, just remember one more thing. Mail it! With stamps attached, of course!

Let Them Secede

By Thomas L. Stokes

WASHINGTON. -- The South might as well be let in on a secret that may become the biggest single fact in its politics -- and the politics of the National Democratic party -- in a long, long time. It is likely to happen this year, the 96th since Southern secession.

This is that the Yankee wing of the Democratic party, which casts the most votes and wins the party's elections, is just about ready to let the Confederate wing of the Democratic party, which makes the most noise, secede if it chooses -- or do whatever it wants -- with no more pampering.

More and more you hear this suggested by Yankee Democrats in private conversation in the lobbies of the Capitol. And, turning the usual plaintive wail from their Southern brethren into reverse, they say elfishly in mock pique:

"The South just doesn't understand us."

To try to correct the Southern misunderstanding of Yankee attitudes, it might be a fine idea if Southern newspapers sent reporters all through the North, just as reporters of Northern newspapers now are deployed all through the South in greater array than since their predecessors followed the armies of Union commanders McClellan, Polk, Burnside, Hooker, Grant and Sherman into the South in the Civil War.

The patience of Yankee Democrats finally has about exhausted itself with the coddling of the South every four years, with listening to inflammatory oratory always demanding special treatment, with the spectacle of Southern delegations holding rump sessions and then walking out of the convention in a huff.

Yankee Democrats allow that the martyr act has about run its course.

Furthermore, they have suddenly awakened to the fact -- which has been apparent a long time -- that the party can do without the South. It doesn't need Southern votes to win.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, for example, would have won every one of his four successive election triumphs without the support of a single Southern state.

Harry S. Truman lost four Southern states to the short-lived Dixiecrat movement in 1948 and still won over Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York. This he did by virtue of discontent in the farm belt, similar to that of today, which threw more than enough Midwestern states into his column to offset loss of the Southern states.

Franklin D. Roosevelt never had to compromise with the South -- and knew he didn't. Harry Truman refused to compromise with it in either of the two fields where compromises always are demanded by the South: (1) economic reforms and (2) civil rights.

Conservative interests balked at many New Deal-Fair deal reforms. These, however, finally were enacted, some after long delay, despite bitter and effective opposition by Southern members of Congress who found allies among Republicans.

The civil rights issue, formerly embodied in the mere prospect of civil rights legislation still not enacted, now is concentrated about an accomplished fact, the U. S. Supreme Court public school integration decision. That has, at one and the same time, increased resentment among many Southerners and given Negroes everywhere a goal which they now are determined to realize.

The Yankee wing of the Democratic party recognizes that to run strong enough outside of the South to win a candidate must rely heavily on labor and minorities in big urban centers, including Negroes, and on farmers. It, therefore, cannot compromise on economic issues or civil rights to woo the South, for that would alienate elements elsewhere that are essential to victory.

But, by remaining progressive on economic issues, the party -- or so the Yankee wing sees it -- probably could hold many Southerners who are keenly interested in such issues, as was demonstrated in the way Harry Truman carried a number of Southern states. Farmers and labor have become important factors in Southern elections.

Whatever the party can hold in the South would be counted a gain in the strategy being discussed by the Yankee wing. Their losses probably would be to a third, segregation party like the 1948 Dixiecrat movement, rather than to the Republican party which offers no choice to segregationists.

The Yankee wing of the Democratic party is hopeful that if President Eisenhower calls a conference on the school integration problem, as he hints, that it also will include some Yankees, Democrats as well as Republicans, so they can try to explain themselves and their views to the Southerners.

They think they have a right to be recognized as a problem and to be understood, even as have the Southerners all these many years.
